Sthāna

"Position Is Everything."

Sthāna means position — not location. The standing of a person, the rank of an address, the absolute refusal to be anything other than the first name in any room.

ABOUT MARK

Mark is a company of precision. Every dimension, every material, every decision is documented, deliberated, and defended. We do not build impressively. We build correctly. Sthāna is the residential expression of that discipline — twelve villas in Jubilee Hills, designed with an engineer's exactitude and finished with an architect's restraint.

BRAND ARCHITECTURE

35 YEARS | 10M+ SQ FT | COMMERCIAL TRACK RECORD | RESIDENTIAL DEBUT

JUBILEE HILLS | 12 VILLAS ONLY | NO PHASE TWO

Position Is Everything.

True black ground, pure white surface, platinum cold accent. The palette of things that need no warmth to be understood as superlative.

SCALE

Not selling units. Curating a community. Twelve villas. Not a phase one — the whole project, permanently complete.

SERVICE

Permanent estate team. Concierge per family. Contractual — ten years post-possession. The service is the product.

PERMANENCE

No phase two. No adjacent plot. The twelve-villa structure makes expansion architecturally impossible.

MATERIALS

No substitution after design approval. Designed to a standard — then built to it. What you see is what you receive.

LEGACY

The twelve founding families become the permanent character of this address. Governed and covenanted to last.

LOGOMARK

S

Initial mark — geometric, inscriptional, scale-invariant. Works embossed, engraved, or reversed on any surface.

LOGO RULES

> The mark is always set in platinum or white — the brand does not use warm tones in its mark under any circumstances.

> Never set the mark at an angle — it is always horizontal, always geometric, always exact.

> The mark requires a minimum 24pt clear space on all sides — it is not a component, it is a statement.

Three Worlds Within One

01

The Precision Gym

A private performance training facility with Olympic-grade equipment, a resident trainer available on annual retainer, a 25-metre lap pool, and a recovery suite of Himalayan salt sauna and ice bath. Calibrated to the individual. Not shared.

02

The Executive Pool

A white terrazzo infinity pool of 16 metres, flanked by black stone walls and a single row of platinum poolside sun loungers. Temperature at 27°C. The pool's geometry is designed for a single lap's length without turning — precision in every dimension.

03

The Statement Entrance

A 90-metre private driveway of hand-dressed black granite, flanked by single-species mature hedging. The gate opens on approach without pause. A uniformed attendant. One. Never more. The entrance performs exactly one function — it signals arrival.

THREE-FLOOR CONFIGURATION

EXCLUSIVITY

No shared walls. No shared lobbies. No shared anything.

Every villa is a free-standing structure. Each owner's relationship with the community is voluntary, not architectural.

INTERIOR

Materials specified. Materials delivered.

Every surface, fixture, and fitting is named in the agreement. No substitutions, no compromises. What the drawing promised is what possession delivers.

OUTDOORS

A private garden. A private pool. A private sky.

Each villa owns its outdoor space outright. Landscape design is bespoke — handled by the project's retained design team at the buyer's direction.

PERMANENCE

The community is the twenty-fourth resident.

12 owners define the community forever. The estate management team ensures it stays exactly as designed — from day one through decade three.

FIVE BRAND CLAIMS

What Sthāna Does Not Share With Anyone

01

SCALE

"We are not in the business of selling units. We are curating a community."

Twelve villas. Not a phase one. The complete project. Where competitors count floors, Sthāna counts families.

02

SERVICE

"We have retained an estate team, contractually, for ten years post-possession."

Not outsourced to whoever wins the next contract. Permanent. Named. Accountable to the twelve families — no one else.

03

PERMANENCE

"There is no phase two. The structure makes expansion architecturally impossible."

Your investment cannot be diluted by a second phase. Your address cannot change by what gets built next door. Structurally protected.

04

MATERIALS

"No material substitution is permitted after design approval."

What you see in the show apartment is what you receive on possession. Zero substitution. Contractual. Unconditional. Written in the sale deed.

05

LEGACY

"The twelve families who take possession become the permanent character of this address."

The project is governed and covenanted to preserve that character across generations. Not a home. A founding position.

Three Creative Languages

01

Status

The primary register. The first impression of Sthāna — immediate, unhurried, decided. Every visual choice earns this feeling without announcing it.

02

Precision

The material mood. Grounded in place and stone and time. Sthāna does not abstract away from the physical world — it celebrates the finest version of it.

03

Platinum cold

The underlying register. Sthāna does not say what it is — it is known to those who know. This mood is for the collector who needs no introduction.
